“Businesses for Water Security in the Noyyal-Bhavani

Date – 29th March, 2019

Venue - Fairfield by Marriott, Coimbatore, Tamil Nadu, India

Time - 9:00 am- 2:30 pm

In India, the CEO Water Mandate is working with industry leaders in an initiative called “Businesses for Water Security in the Noyyal-Bhavani” to decrease business water risk and increase water security within the Noyyal and Bhavani subbasins of the Cauvery river basin. This initiative will help facility managers, especially within the textile and apparel sector, understand their main water risks, set non-binding water targets, and prioritize solutions to address water-related challenges, considering both the river basin and facility conditions.

This workshop provides a platform to bring together current and potential project participants, present and discuss findings from the draft basin and facility water assessments, and understand more about the mill and factory current water management practices and challenges. This event is hosted by the CEO Water Mandate and co-hosted by partners, Global Compact Network India (GCNI) and the Ashoka Trust for Research in Ecology and the Environment (ATREE).
